10 Steps to Stop Yelling | Psychology Today Submitted by Anonymous on September 18, 2014 - 10:12am This is all well and good, but can someone, help me to figure out how to get my daughter to get her shoes on when we should have been out the door 7 minutes ago to catch the school bus?? Negative natural consequences don't seem to work with her. And don't tell me to wake up earlier, or just put the shoes on for her, or yada yada. This isn't about the shoes. It's about her following directions and respecting my authority (not fearing me. 10 Steps to Effective Couples Communication | Psychology Today 10 Steps for Discussing the Trivial to the Traumatic with your Partner Get comfortable " and if it's a difficult topic you plan to discuss, some place relatively "neutral" works best. Speculate once. Yes, I know it's a shocker to use the word "speculate" here at the end of all this prudent, conservative investing advice. A speculative investment is one with an unknown return, one where you could very possibly lose all of your principal. Such investments have little place in the portfolios of most people saving for retirement, who can't afford even a small dent in their life's savings. But they do have a place.
